

Writing and Publishing Zone (PUBZ)

Modern Literature and Culture Research Centre | Ryerson University

 5:30 PM – 7:00 PM, BI-WEEKLY

 MLC CONFERENCE/EXHIBITION SPACE,
GROUND FLOOR, 111 GERRARD EAST

The Modern Literature and Culture Research Centre is launching a Writing and Publishing Zone (PUBZ) in May 2013. While Dr. Gammel oversees the group and provides mentorship, this is largely an MLC student-driven group, organized and moderated by graduate students with the involvement and advisement of post-doctoral MLC research team members.

Administered by the MLC Research Centre team as part of Dr. Gammel's mandate to train the next generation of highly skilled academic scholars, PUBZ provides peer-support for the preparation of dissertations, theses, MRPs, conference papers, journal articles, and scholarly books. In line with Ryerson's student-driven experiential zone education, the goal is to provide MLC team members and other interested students and scholars with a forum for honing skills in research, writing and publishing, and offer support for the preparation of publishable scholarship.
